Oriental Armies Clash At Mingkiang Today For Chinese Corridor

Goal of Hand-to-hand Fight is Control of 190-mile-wide Strip Separating Japanese Dominated Areas.

U. S. PREPARES

Naval Units Sent to Strengthen Hawaiian Defenses — Marines to Make Move.

Shanghai, Feb. 1 (AP)—Chinese and Japanese armies clashed hand-to-hand today in a struggle for the 190-mile wide corridor separating areas Japanese have conquered in nearly seven months of undeclared warfare.

The engagements centered along the southern border of the corridor at Mingkiang, some 230 miles northwest of Nanking. Chinese and Japanese reports of the battle were at odds, with both sides asserting they had taken a heavy toll of enemy lives.

The northern border of the Chinese corridor, in southern Szechwan Province north of Suichow, apparently was quiet. About a half million Chinese and Japanese troops were massed for the struggle over the area.

Japanese officials in Shanghai prepared to press their investigation of conditions at Nanking which had brought protests from the United States government. Major General Masaharu Homma arranged to join Acting Ambassador Shirokuro Hidaka at Nanking for a survey of the situation.

The United States gunboat Oahu, which has been at anchor off Nanking since the reopening of the United States embassy there following Japanese conquest of the city, was to leave for Shanghai for fuel and supplies.

Conditions Improving

Foreigners reaching Shanghai from Nanking said conditions in the conquered capital were improving slowly, with Japanese military authorities attempting to restore order. They added that "the troops were not yet entirely under control."

Two Americans, Dr. Fred E. Brown and Mrs. Wesley May, sailed up the Yangtze on board a Japanese vessel to resume their work at the General Hospital at Wuhu, 60 miles upstream from Nanking.

Japanese authorities at Nanking attempted to persuade some 250,000 Chinese refugees in an improvised safety zone to return to their homes. In Shanghai, the Japanese spokesmen reported that the population of the Nanking quarter south of the French concession was now 55,000 in addition to 22,000 in refugee zone. Before the war it had housed nearly one million.

Welch fusiliers who manned British defense lines during warfare at Shanghai marched through the Japanese-occupied Hongkong section of the International Settlement to embark for Hongkong. A United States Marine band led the parade.

United States Defense

San Francisco, Feb. 1 (AP)—The United States deployed units of its fighting forces over a wide area of the Pacific front today and moved toward strengthening its vital Hawaiian defenses with more men and bombing planes.

The activity touched units as widely separated as Alaska, Southern California and China and involved all three defense arms, the army, navy and marine corps.

Ninety-eight warships and 250 fighting planes launched five days of intensive war games off Southern California in the fleet's initial test by its new commander-in-chief, Admiral Claude C. Bloch.

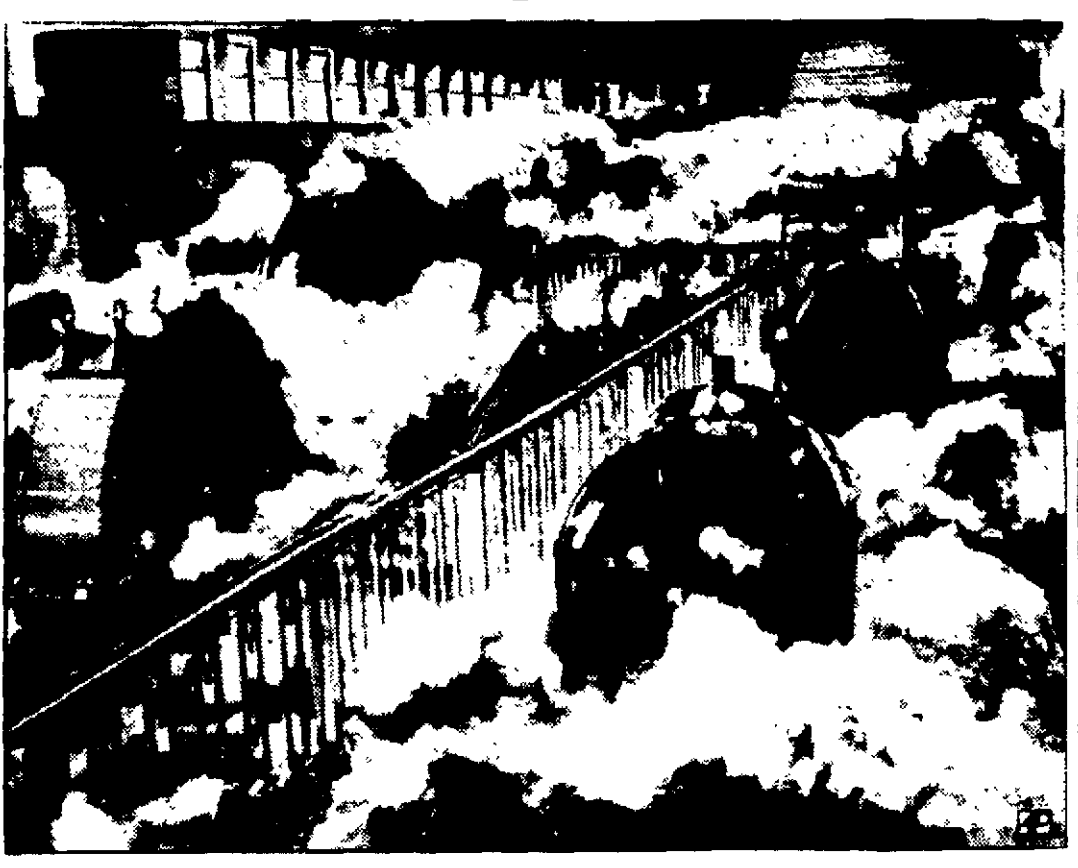

Five planes of the naval bombing squadron VP-16 were at Sitka, Alaska after a 1,000-mile flight from Seattle via Prince Rupert, B. C. Naval authorities described the flight, during which a sixth plane was lost in a forced landing off Goose Island, B. C., as a "routine maneuver." Five men aboard the wrecked plane were rescued.

Fifteen hundred marines stationed in Shanghai were under transfer orders to Hawaii, defenses of which will be augmented by the addition of 13 big new bombing planes from Hamilton Field, California. The Marines will be transferred this month. The 20 officers and 180 men making up the army bombardment squadron sail today from San Francisco for Honolulu.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—The position of the treasury on January 31: Receipts, $19,529,865.33; expenditures, $23,851,285.66; balance, $2,325,426.26; customs receipts for the month, $24,374,238.80. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $2,432,172,315.11; expenditures, $4,370,460,709.83, including $1,173,441,971.57 of emergency expenditures, excess of expenditures, $1,938,287,785.72; gross debt, $27,442,619,849.54, an increase of $2,150,076.82 above the previous day's gross assets, $12,755,356.205.55, including $1,225,017,322.09 of inactive gold.

Ice Jam In Niagara Power Plant

It wasn't only the "honeymoon bridge" that suffered from the ice jam in Niagara gorge. Ice also forced its way into the $16,000,000 plant of the Ontario hydro-electric commission at the foot of Horseshoe Falls, inflicting damage—as shown in this interior view—which commission officials said would require months to repair.

Normal Water Supply Restored to New Paltz As Board Makes Plans

Kingston was in the grip of a mild epidemic of scarlet fever in January and the month closed on Monday with 53 cases of the disease being reported to the Board of Health. This was the largest number of cases of the disease ever reported in any one month in the city, as far as the records disclose.

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, said this morning that during January, 25 of the cases of scarlet fever had been discovered by the school nurses in making visits to the homes of children absent from school. All of these 25 cases were so light that no physician had been called in to attend them.

The nurses reported the finding of the cases to Dr. Sanford who made personal calls at the homes and confirmed the diagnosis.

There was as much danger in a light case of scarlet fever in spreading the disease as if the case had been quarantined for the child who was ill with a light attack of the disease was more apt to communicate the fever to his or her playmates.

Goosestep For Fascists

Rome, Feb. 1 (AP)—Premier Mussolini today defended adoption of the goosestep—called in Italy the "Roman step"—as the parade style of the Fascist Militia. Speaking at the militia's celebration of the 15th anniversary of its founding, he said: "Our opponents will claim the step is the most genuine expression of the true militaristic spirit. We are glad, because it is for this reason we adopted it."

Cruisers to Singapore

Sydney, Australia, Feb. 1 (AP)—The United States cruisers Trenton, Memphis and Milwaukee sailed for Singapore today after attending ceremonies celebrating the 15th anniversary of the founding of Australia. At Singapore they will be present at ceremonies marking the opening of Britain's great naval base.

U. S. Toll 106,000 Lives

Chicago, Feb. 1 (AP)—Accidental deaths cost the nation 106,000 lives in 1932, the National Safety Council computed today, including an annual all-time high of 39,700 in the traffic field.

The permanently injured were estimated at 375,000, temporarily injured at 9,490,000.

This "gruesome jamboree of carelessness," the council said, ran up a bill of $2,700,000,000.

It was broken down into $2,350,000,000 in wage loss and medical expense, $870,000,000 for property damage in traffic accidents and $235,000,000 property loss in fires.

Despite a 4 per cent drop from 1936 in total deaths, the toll was higher than for any preceding year. Council statisticians attributed the decrease largely to a mild summer which reduced heat deaths by approximately 4,500.

An "encouraging phase" was a sharp decline in the child accident death rate. It plunged 13 per cent for children under 15,

To Observe Scout Sunday Widely in Ulster Districts

Plans have practically been completed for the observance of Scout Sunday throughout Ulster and Greene counties on February 6. On this day the national celebration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of Scouting in America will start and continue for more than two weeks in Ulster and Greene counties.

Scout Sunday will be especially observed in many churches throughout the area. In some of the communities and districts services have been arranged as follows:

At Catskill the troops of the village of Catskill and some of the Northern District will assemble in the Baptist Church at 7:30 p. m. and the Rev. I. M. Stanton, pastor of the church, will preach the sermon.

In Saugerties the troops of the village of Saugerties and district will assemble in the Saugerties High School at 7:30 p. m., together with their friends. There will be special music and the address will be given by Prof. Roanoke of the Oakwood School for Boys at Poughkeepsie.

In Phenicia all the troops of the Western District will assemble in the Odd Fellows Hall at 7:30 p. m. with their friends and the speaker will be Arthur Trowbridge of Olive Bridge.

Plans For Kingston

In Kingston the troops of the Kingston District and their friends as well as the general public and the members of the Men's Club Federation will assemble in St. James Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m. Dean McCuskey, headmaster of the Scarborough School for boys, will be the speaker.

The Rondout Valley District will have their service on Sunday, February 12, in the Ellenville High School.

Another feature of this Scout Sunday will be a special service in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York City, at 3:30 on Sunday afternoon, February 6, and many boys from the Catholic groups in Ulster county are planning to attend.

Special Courts of Honor have been scheduled throughout the Districts and these have been announced previously.

ZERO TEMPERATURES HALT PLUNGE OF BRIDGE TODAY

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Feb. 1 (AP)—Zero temperatures temporarily halted the plunge of "Honeymoon Bridge" into the 175 feet depths of Niagara river today.

A weather shift stopped the breaking up of the Niagara Gorge ice jam and the jumbled mass of twisted girders which were left after the famous bridge plunged into the gorge last Thursday remained on top of the rumbling ice.

Workers attempting to clear the $16,000,000 Ontario Hydro-electric Commission plant which was almost covered by the river ice had difficulty working in the frigid air. The plant already has suffered $1,000,000 damage by the ice.

Yesterday, W. L. Houck, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-electric Commission, served notice on the International Railway Company, owner of the fallen span, that the company would be held responsible for any damage the wreckage caused the Canadian concern.

Houck said he feared the twisted mass of steel would sink and pile up more ice on the river and damage the Queenstown Plant seven miles below the falls.

3 Boys Asphyxiated

Claresholm, Alta., Feb. 1 (AP)—Playing in a closed garage where they started the motor of an automobile, three boys were asphyxiated by exhaust fumes yesterday.

English Destroyers Rushing to Seek Out Marauding Submarine

Four Ships with Depth Charges Hunt "Pirate" Undersea Craft Which Sank British Merchantman Sunday.

PATROL RENEWED

New Incidents Cause England to Again Increase Warship Patrols Off Spain.

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—The admiralty rushed four destroyers armed with depth charges today in search for the mysterious, marauding submarine which sank the British merchantman Endymion off the southeastern Spanish coast with loss of 11 lives.

The destroyers were under orders without hesitation to drop depth charges if the attacking submarine were sighted and attempted to resist capture.

The Nyon accord against "piracy," signed last September 11, established that any such submarines be "counter attacked and if possible destroyed."

The destroyer flotilla entered its patrol about the Cape Tinos area, where the Endymion sank following the submarine attack, which possibly signalled a general recurrence of such so-called "piratical attacks" which disrupted Mediterranean merchant shipping in the summer of 1932.

An informed source said the British government "takes a very serious view of the sinking and are considering what steps are required to deal with the situation."

It was emphasized that Britain does not recognize the right of Spanish insurgents to blockade the coasts of Spain. The Spanish government said insurgents sank the Endymion.

Three English Dead

Three of the dead aboard the Endymion were British and one was Swedish, Charles M. Larsson, official of the European non-intervention-in-Spain committee.

A Spanish government communiqué attributed the torpedoing of the 887-ton ship to insurgents. The Endymion, sunk Sunday, was carrying a cargo of coal for Cartagena and left Gibraltar Saturday.

The searching destroyers were the Fortune, Fire Drake, Fury and Forester. They are among the most modern of the entire British Mediterranean patrol which naval sources forecast would be strengthened speedily "if this sort of thing continues."

The patrol was relaxed late in 1932, these circles disclosed, because of more normal conditions in the sea. Several ships put into port to refuel and to give their crews a rest, thus leaving "considerably less than 50 destroyers" engaged in the anti-piracy patrol.

The airforce unit of 10 bombing squadrons and two squadrons of fighters returned to England in December.

The planes still are in England, despite bombing of the British freighter Thorpeness at Tarazona January 20, during an insurgent air-raid there.

Other Attacks

Other recent attacks include the British freighter Lake Geneva, missed by a torpedo January 15, and the Dutch freighter, Hannah Holland, torpedoed and sunk January 11.

The British admiralty office confirmed the sinking and there were indications it would add to the bitterness of Parliament debate on foreign issues.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden already was reported considering new efforts to "humanize" the Spanish conflict by prevailing upon both government and insurgents to stop bombing of towns behind the battle lines.

The Far Eastern conflict was expected also to come before Parliament late today, when Eden was to answer questions on foreign policies.

TAKES COMMAND OF NAVAL ACADEMY

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 1 (AP)—Rear Admiral Wilson Brown, former aide to President Roosevelt, took command of the U. S. Naval Academy today, succeeding Rear Admiral David Foote Sellers, who was given a month's leave prior to his retirement March 1.

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—Howard Frankel, the 12-year-old subway shuttler of a broken home, was turned back to his mother again today after his third attempt in 10 days to resume life with his father.

Still protesting he had little liking for a court order that decreed he should live with his mother, Mrs. Rose Frankel, the boy was returned to her after a night spent partly in the subway and the Children's Society Shelter.

More Than Million for G. O. P.

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 1 (AP)—Republican National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton said here last night contributions to the party from approximately 20,000 persons in the last 14 months totaled more than $1,000,000.

"This, in a year following defeat at the polls, is more money than the Republican party ever received in any year following a victory," he said.

Reliever To See President

Robert Kaempfer (right) is on relief and lives in a $5-a-week room, but he will be in the group of 175 small business men who will go to Washington from New York to see President Roosevelt. Henry Model, (left) head of a sporting goods company, said he would finance Kaempfer's trip. Note the hole in Kaempfer's shoe. They are shown together in New York.

Chances Good in U. S.

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—An American, says J. Edgar Hoover, has 12 times as many chances as an Englishman of dying a violent death.

Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, repeated reports showing 212 murders and manslaughter were committed in Great Britain in 1932, against 12,741 in the United States. America had 10 times as many robberies and aggravated assaults as England, Hoover estimated.

Prime of Ireland Dies

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Feb. 1 (AP)—Dr. Charles Frederick D'Arcy, 75, Archbishop of Armagh and primate of all Ireland, died Tuesday at his Armagh home.

Oso, Norway, Feb. 1 (AP)—The Soviet "North Pole" cameras reported today by radio their camp as endangered by wide cracks in their drifting icefloes, now some 1,100 miles from the North Pole from which it started eight months ago.

Housing Bill Peace Move

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Democratic leaders in the Senate worked anxiously behind the scenes today to quell a bi-partisan revolt which threatened indefinite delay in enacting the administration housing bill.

Senator Lodge (R., Mass.) gained such strong support for his proposal to return the measure to a conference committee that administration lieutenants staved off a vote in order to round up their forces.

Lodge was trying to reinstate a requirement that prevailing wages be paid on all home building projects financed by government-insured mortgages. This provision was in the bill approved by the Senate in December, but a conference committee reconciling the measure with the house bill knocked out.

The housing legislation is intended to encourage private investment in small home construction by permitting the owner to put up in cash only 10 per cent of the cost. A government insured mortgage would cover the remainder.

If the measure should go back to the conference committee, there might be a long dispute, for the House approved the committee's

Treaty Nations Would Invoke

Escape Clause, He Says, If Other Nations Were Found to Be Doing So.

NO INTELLIGENCE

Says U. S. Has No Information From Intelligence Service About Japanese.

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—The navy's top-ranking officer told Congress today the United States would build battleships larger than the 35,000-ton limit fixed by the 1936 London treaty if other powers disregard the limitation.

"It is almost certain," Admiral William D. Leahy said, "that the treaty nations would invoke an escape clause and build larger ships if it were determined that other countries were doing so."

The chief of naval operations made this statement to the House naval committee during the second day of hearings on legislation to carry out an $800,000,000 naval expansion program proposed in response to President Roosevelt's recommendation for a flat 20 per cent increase in the size of the fleet.

Earlier, he told the committee of unofficial reports to the navy that Japan is building 43,000-ton battleships. This information, he said, had been published in Italy.

Asked by Representative Mott (R-Ore) whether the intelligence service did not know accurately whether Japan was building such super-dreadnaughts, Leahy replied:

"We have an intelligence department but it has not been able to get the information in Japan."

He asserted this government knew nothing of the tonnage or gun calibers of the new Japanese ships.

Proposed Program

The proposed naval expansion program includes three 35,000-battleships and Leahy said the United States has no present intention of building larger ones unless forced to do so by the activities of foreign powers.

Questioned by Representative Hamilton (D-Va.) as to how the navy would defend the National Capital if the fleet were occupied in the Pacific, Leahy said he presumed that would have to be left to the army until the fleet could reach the scene.

Leahy emphatically opposed division of the fleet between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, although Hamilton said many members of Congress believed there should be two fleets because of the vulnerability of the Panama Canal.

"That, of course, would involve a much greater increase than that proposed," Leahy asserted.

Testimony on Measures

Leahy testified on legislation to carry out President Roosevelt's recommendation for a 20 per cent increase in the navy's authorized strength. The bill would authorize construction of 47 new combatant warships and 22 auxiliaries.

Representative Cole (R-N. Y.) asked whether any country had a combatant ship of more than 35,000 tons built or building.

"So far as we know," the admiral said, "no nation has a ship larger than 35,000 tons or one under construction, although information has been published in Italy that Japan is building ships very much larger than that."

The government, he added, has no official knowledge of Japanese naval construction. Cole also asked how many new capital ships were contemplated under the expansion bill.

Leahy told him that if the present tonnage limitation of 35,000—fixed by the 1936 London naval treaty—were continued, three more vessels could be built.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) brought out that the purpose of the expansion program was to "keep us on an even keel with other nations."

Safety Under Ratio

Leahy agreed, asserting it would be "difficult for any other nation to successfully attack us as long as the present ratio is maintained."

Representative Suthphin (D-N. J.) wanted to know whether battleships larger than 40,000 tons could pass through the Panama Canal. Leahy declined to answer positively but expressed belief they could.

"What is the ability of our present naval strength to enforce the Monroe Doctrine?" Cole asked.

"That would be dependent absolutely on the amount of force used against the doctrine," Leahy replied.

Asked if any nation had a fleet strong enough to "destroy" the United States navy, Leahy said that while he did not like to admit that any navy could do so,

HE SELLS TOBACCO TO THEM ALL

But Branch Bobbitt, like so many other independent experts, prefers Luckies...

"AT AUCTIONS in my warehouse in Farmville, North Carolina," says Mr. Branch Bobbitt, "Lucky Strike buyers know what tobacco they want and they'll keep bidding right up until they get it."

"Well—in a cigarette—it's the tobacco that counts. I know tobacco and I know what tobacco is in what cigarettes. So that's one reason I've smoked Luckies for over five years now."

Many other experts agree with Mr. Bobbitt. Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

Assembly Favors Insurance Fund For More Workers

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 1 (AP).—Democratic Governor Lehman's proposal to extend New York's unemployment insurance benefits to all white collar workers obtained unanimous bi-partisan approval today of the Republican-dominated Assembly.

The vote was 101 to 0.

The measure went to the Democratic-controlled Senate, where quick concurrence was expected. The amendment, if enacted, would make all white collar workers eligible for benefits even though their income exceeds $3,000 a year. The law now limits benefits to those receiving that amount or less.

There was no discussion on the governor's proposal when the bill was moved to Assembly vote. Approximately 250,000 more workers would be added to the 3,200,000 already eligible for jobless benefits of from $7 to $15 a week under the proposal.

Immediately thereafter, in a session that lasted only 11 minutes, the Assembly passed and sent to the Senate a measure providing for retirement of state police on half-pay at 50 years of age after 20 years' service. The proposal was sponsored by Republican Assemblyman Herbert A. Rapp, Genesee county.

The larger house also approved and transmitted to the Senate Republican George B. Parsons' proposal for free licensing of the so-called "seeing-eye" dogs used to lead the blind.

Chairman Abbott Low Moffat, of the Republican Assembly ways and means committee, said action would be postponed for at least another week on Governor Lehman's proposal for bank-sold life insurance. He said the committee would consider possible amendments to the measure which as now drawn would permit banks to sell to state residents life insurance policies up to $1,000.

Army Recruiting Officer Here

Sergeant Jules M. Eggers now in charge of the Poughkeepsie district of the United States Army Recruiting Service at Poughkeepsie will be in Kingston every Tuesday with a view of contacting desirable young men for enlistments in the United States Army.

Anyone interested may contact the sergeant for the present time at the temporary main post office on Broadway. The federal offices in the central post office will open about February 15, at which time the sergeant may be reached there.

There are vacancies in practically every branch of the service, including the air corps, providing the applicant passes the necessary physical, mental and moral qualifications.

Sergeant Eggers is relieving Sergeant Donnelly, formerly of this district, who has returned to his former office at Wilmington, Del.

County Court Meets on Feb. 7

County Judge Frederick G. Traver will convene the February trial term of county court Monday, February 7, at 2 o'clock. At that time the civil calendar will be called but civil matters will not be taken up until the second week of the term, the first week being given over to the criminal matters.

District Attorney Clean B. Murray has prepared a criminal calendar of 34 cases which will be taken up during the opening week. The criminal calendar will also be called on the opening day and the cases will be moved for trial as nearly as possible in order in which they appear on the calendar.

DEWEY WRATHFUL TO DISMISS AIDE

New York, Feb. 1 (AP).—The first employee to be dismissed from the newly assembled staff of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey will be the one who released to newspapermen a confidential order which prohibited employees from doing exactly that.

The strictly businesslike young prosecutor, who broke Tammany's traditional hold on the office, said as much yesterday when he discovered that a partial gag on his office had been disclosed.

Issued over the name of Paul E. Lockwood, executive assistant, Dewey's order said in part: "The business of this office is the investigation of crime. All matters concerned therewith are strictly confidential. (This sentence was underlined.)

"It is a rule of the office that no employees at any time, under any circumstances, or any occasion, hold any conversation with newspapermen, photographers, or others engaged in the collection of news."

"Violation of any of these rules will result in immediate dismissal."

"The regulations, similar to ones in force for 30 years, do not apply to members of the legal staff but are being observed scrupulously by everyone else—with one glaring exception, and Dewey was intent today on finding out who the exception was.

WOMEN'S DIVISION OF SALVATION ARMY DRIVE

Ann Herzog will be chairman of the Women's Division for the coming Salvation Army drive to raise $5,000. A meeting of the Women's Division will be held February 10, at the Governor Clinton Hotel, at which time plans will be formulated for the maintenance appeal to start here February 18.

Russian Coast Defenses Tripled

Moscow, Feb. 1 (AP).—Soviet Russia's coast defenses have been tripled during the last few years, the navy commissar disclosed today.

Writing in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, Commissar Peter Alexandrovich Smirnov said:

"The number of our fortified zones which protect the most important political and economic regions on Soviet shores has been increased three times. It is very important that those fortified zones have been supplied with heavy artillery."

"The navy has developed both in quantity and quality, particularly the submarine fleet," Smirnov said.

He stated that Soviet battle-ships, built in 1914 and 1915, have been modernized. He disclosed that a new commander, a young officer named Kuznetsov, has taken charge of the Pacific fleet, succeeding Admiral Grigory Kirilov.

LOVABLE HOBBO DOG WINS COURT FREEDOM

St. Clairsville, O., Feb. 1 (AP).—Teddy, a shaggy, hobo shepherd dog who frolicked his way into the hearts of every man, woman and child in this town of 2,400 persons, abandoned his freelanceing today.

Saved from death in the dog warden's gas chamber by special court order, Teddy followed the dictum of Judges Clifford L. Belt and Bernard W. Witten that he be "held without harm" in the Belmont county children's home.

Teddy served as canine drum major for the high school band. At night he helped the watchman guard the business district. No one owned him but everybody fed him.

Under state law, an unlicensed dog without a home must be destroyed after three days of impoundment unless there is a claimant. Last Friday Dog Warden John McGrew took Teddy into custody.

The big mongrel had the rap beaten from the start. Students held a protest mass meeting. A penny collection netted $9.45. A common pleas court hearing was scheduled.

The court ruled that Teddy could be taken from the home for any football game, parade or school rally.

WINSTON TO ATTEND PRODUCERS MEETING

Ways of assuring a healthy childhood to those who will "come of age" in 1950 will be the theme of the meeting before which many prominent doctors, pediatricians, health department experts and college professors will speak.

The speeches and discussions will make up the program of the joint annual meeting of the Metropolitan Certified Milk Producers Association of America, Anton Schleferstein, Somerville, N. J., president of the Metropolitan Producers Association, announced today. The meeting will continue all day and evening with a luncheon at 1 p. m. and a dinner at 6 p. m.

MEETING OF HIGHLAND ROAD COMMISSION ON WEDNESDAY

The commission which is hearing claims for damages arising out of the reconstruction of 3-W at Highland is scheduled to meet on Wednesday at 10 o'clock at the court house.

This is the first meeting of the commission in some three months. In case the commission proceeds with a hearing it is probable that the claim for damages to the Rhodes property, left unfinished at the last hearing, will be taken up. The house is situated near the former location of the monument at Highland and the new road alignment runs within a few feet of the foundation of the house, which is a large one.

Leahy Says Navy To Build Bigger

"the British navy is much more powerful than ours at present." He reiterated, however, that it would be "exceedingly difficult" for any single navy to destroy the United States fleet.

Vinson drew from Leahy a statement that while the United States would need a naval increase three times the size of that proposed in order to wage an aggressive campaign, that would not be true of most other nations because they had much less coast line to defend.

water line. Should the break be out in the creek in deep water the main will be disconnected and hauled on shore and the repair made and the main then relocated under the creek.

Old Main in Use

The old main now in use is the cast iron line which has been in service ever since the system was installed some 50 years ago. The failure of the steel line, which has been in use about 20 years, was not due to defect of the line but was due to ice flows crashing down on the pipe, breaking it.

A meeting of the commissioners was held Monday evening at which time the situation was talked over. One proposition was discussed which would relieve the village of any future trouble. This was to lay a second line across the flats for a distance of some 4,000 or 5,000 feet to get above high water danger and relocate the valve chambers there. This would cost considerable and before any such action is taken the matter would be submitted to the people of the village, since it would involve a bond issue.

Loud in Praise

Mr. Bogert was very loud in his praise for the cooperation which New Paltz received from surrounding towns in the emergency and he expressed the appreciation of the people of the village to the city of Kingston and for the cooperation of Fire Chief Murphy in sending down a fire truck to stand by in case of emergency while the New Paltz pumper was used for pumping water from Jewett's pond into the mains as a temporary measure to supply the village.

Since water has been pumped into the mains from the pond the supply has been very highly chlorinated to prevent any chance of contamination. This has made

37 PERSONS SNOWBOUND IN WESTERN MOUNTAIN

Stockton, Calif., Feb. 1 (AP).—Thirty-seven people were snow-bound today at Pinecrest, a Sierra Nevada resort 20 miles east of Sonoma, in Tehulume county.

All but four young women were members of a College of Pacific party. Authorities said no fears were felt for the collegians, but parents of four Stockton girls reported marooned in a cabin three miles from Pinecrest were worried because the girls had only a small amount of provisions.

Four young members of the Stockton Ski Club said they would attempt to reach the girls.

FUTURE SAFETY

Every road will be safe by and by. This miracle will be accomplished by improving roads and cars and, since drivers can't be improved much, taking nearly all the responsibility out of their hands. Automatic devices will make the cars intelligent enough to dodge troubles and dangers. These are the predictions of Dr. Millar McCulloch, Harvard traffic researcher, and Prof. John M. Leslies, engineer at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They foresee such safety gadgets as these, a generation hence:

Something like windshield-wipers under the car for slippery roads.

Automatic steering to take cars safely around curves.

Infra-red lights and photo-electric cells on front and rear of cars, automatically keeping them from bumping each other.

Two-way automatic radios in all cars warning drivers of other vehicles approaching at intersections.

Automatic highway lighting controlled by photo-electric cells by which the car will provide all the light needed in any situation.

KIPLING MEMORIAL

Many Americans will find their minds divided on the question of contributing to the $1,000,000 memorial for Rudyard Kipling proposed by his admirers. A committee organized in this country and headed by President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University is cooperating with similar committees in Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India to raise the funds needed.

American readers have always admired Kipling. Indeed, he gained his first big success in the American market, while living in this country, and throughout his career he had a greater following here than in England and the British dominions. We have considered him almost as one of our own, honoring and rewarding him above any of our native authors.

But what of Mr. Kipling's attitude toward us? After a short period of amused tolerance, it was mostly one of superiority, scorn and contempt. His American wife, like himself, turned against us. He almost seemed to grudge us our enjoyment of his own books. Even in his autobiography, published shortly before his death, he went out of his way to insult us with the statement that we were civilization north of the Canadian border and "stark de-civilization" on this side. Before we entered the World War he was very savage in his denunciation of us. It is hard to forget that sort of thing. We can still love Kipling's poems and stories, but it would be hypocritical to pretend for the man himself a love that many of us do not feel.

THE NEW ADDIS ABABA

Civilization has come to Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia. Here are the facts that prove it: It now has a social life not greatly different from that of a small Italian city. It has several good Italian restaurants, four movie theatres, tennis courts, a riding course, three bookstores and a little night club with Neapolitan singers. It has numerous shops, a fleet of taxicabs, newly-paved streets, public gardens, and Italian doctors, dentists and tailors. It has a white population of more than 14,000, mostly Italians, but including some Armenians, Greeks, Germans, Turks, Russians, English, French and Americans.

The Ethiopian population is slow to recognize all this progress. The estimated 100,000 natives of Addis Ababa lead a nomadic life, roaming in and out of the city, sometimes creating disturbances, and showing general ingratitude for Italian sacrifices in behalf of their land.

And the Italians? So far, this civilizing process has cost them vastly more than it has paid in financial returns. Pride of conquest—achieved by modern weapons over primitive human fighting methods—seems to be the only big thing they've got out of Ethiopia to date.

GRANDPA'S WEATHER

Perhaps we don't have old-fashioned winters any more, but even grandfathers couldn't ask for much more weather excitement than this country enjoyed in the last week of January.

These were the sunspots that were so vast they could be seen here on earth with the unaided eye. There was the gorgeous aurora borealis, so colorful and so widespread that many people began to read special portents in its flaming fingers. To come down to earth, there were the snow storms and drifts that buried some sections of the country in roadless isolation. There were the mammoth piles of grinding ice that tore away a bridge at Niagara Falls and twisted its steel girders like ribbons.

Yes, it looks as if we can tell our grandchildren, 50 years hence, that they don't have the old-fashioned winters we experienced.

WHAT ABOUT WEATHER?

A physician with an extensive hospital practice both in private and public ward patients stated that at one time he much disliked visiting his rheumatic patients during cool damp weather as practically all of them would be feeling "low." He later found that other patients besides those afflicted with rheumatism felt worse on the damp days.

It was Chesterfield, who said that an attack of indigestion, a sleepless night and a rainy morning could make a coward of a man who might otherwise have been a hero.

What about weather? Does the weather have any effects on the body?

Dr. J. Kuhlman in an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association taken from a Leipzig medical journal says, "Everyday experiences show that noticeable reactions of the human organism take place only in case of weather changes. The manner in which weather changes influence the body or body processes is extremely complicated. A part of the effect of weather changes on the body—drastic changes of the moisture in the air, temperature and rate at which the wind blows—can be explained by the sudden demand on the body processes that regulate the body's temperature. In individuals sensitive to weather changes however there are other body processes affected besides temperature. Sensitive persons may even feel changes in the weather in advance.

The weather changes seem to affect that part of the nervous system not under control of the will such as the beating of the heart, breathing, and digestion. Children and slender adults are often irritable and restless in cold and damp weather, but drowsy and sleepy during a warm spell.

The weather in these sensitive individuals affects the blood pressure, the rate at which body processes work and also affects or changes the chemistry of the blood itself.

The knowledge then that weather changes affect the body processes in weather-sensitive individuals should make us more patient with them. It should also help these individuals to understand that as the weather changes, they must expect to have some bad days.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

BY ALAN LEMAY

SYNOPSIS. Two ships are anchored in tropical Balingong bay; our fortified gun-runner, the Linkang, and Christine Forrester's Avon. Sumatran island is seething with a Dyak revolt against the Malays, but my uncle, James Clyde, and myself (Paul Thorne) manage to reach Clyde's besieged client, Rajah Mantusen. We learn too late that Christine is supplying the Dyak guns, and Mantusen blames us. Talking against death, Clyde finally gains a concession. While he is held hostage, I am to bring the Linkang up-river.

Back To The Linkang

A NEW noly horror had got inside of me. In spite of what Clyde said, it was not true that the Linkang could withstand the attack of the Malay war praus; and even if by some miracle she saved herself, she certainly could not save the Avon. I knew with all the gunpowder and the Linkang's too much clearly exactly what was going to happen to Christine Forrester when the Malays forced the river and took the Avon. That would be Mantusen's next quick move, if I failed to burst the Dyaks—and I was sure to fail. Clyde's idea was impossible. It could not be done. I said so to Clyde, ignoring Mantusen.

"This is your chance of a lifetime," Clyde answered. "You will succeed simply because you've got to succeed. Go out there now, and blow this Dyak blockade sky high and hell wide!"

"I can't do it," I kept saying over and over. "I can't—"

"Mr. Thorne," my uncle said, "you will do exactly as you are told."

"Yes, sir."

My knees felt as weak as if the tendons had been cut. As I stood up I thought at first that I would need to help myself with my hands. Mantusen was watching me with a smile of pleased contempt.

Christine Forrester was waiting on the Linkang when we came aboard.

We had reached the shore of Balingong bay two hours before dawn, and after that we waited interminably for daylight. The extra time was due to my allowing three hours for getting from Balingong to the beach, although Lundok, who guided us, had wanted no more than one.

I suppose I had thought there would be a lot of crawling around on our bellies in the bush, and hair-raising delays with prowling Dyaks trying to hunt us out; but there was very little of this nonsense. We opened our foray by crawling 400 yards on our hands and knees, but after that we stood up; and Lundok led us, by intricate trails he knew, almost directly through some of the strong Dyak camps. He had long ago learned the exact lines of the Dyak ring, which not even a mouse deer could have crossed, and found a way within the lines to reach the bay. His knowledge was of no service to Mantusen, to whom the sea was least safe of all; but it served us now.

Christine's Concern

AFTER we reached salt water there was nothing to do but wait on the slimy beach until daylight came. Grogan, weak and feverish from his wound, was in serious difficulty. He kept mumbling sheepishly that he was all right, but he was not. His foot was a mess after an hour's first in just dirt. I washed it with salt water, and banded it with strips of my shirt; but, tropic mud being what it is, I know that we stood a fine chance of losing that man.

When daylight was plain we signaled the Linkang watch by waving what was left of my shirt; and after what seemed to me an unacceptably long delay, our boat put in and landed us.

It would have seemed like coming home to safe and friendly things, after that nightmare in the Siderong river, if only James Clyde had been there.

Then, as I swarmed over the Linkang's counter, I saw that Christine Forrester was waiting at the rail.

"Where is he? Where's Captain Clyde?" She was pale, and there were blue shadows under her eyes, so that I knew at once she had not slept that night. "Why don't you answer me?"

John Blair, that set-faced silent man who was Clyde's second mate, stood behind her, his face very grim; and all down the deck the crew was waiting, all ears. These people, every one of them, knew that Clyde must be dead.

"Captain Clyde is with the Rajah Mantusen," I said.

"He's alive? He's all right?" "Was when I left."

She gave a little gasp that must have been relief, and leaned against the rail. Her lips moved uncertainly, without making any sound.

"Please stand back," I told her. "My men have to come aboard."

"He'll be killed!"

SHE blazed into speech again, her words racing. "But he can't stay there! Don't you people under-like iron, but he made no other remark.

She rushed to the rail. "Is Clyde alive?"

"Captain Clyde's orders are that we move the Linkang into the river with the tide. We're supposed to kedge her up to where our guns can hammer down the Dyak stockades. If we breach the stockades, then the Malays are supposed to rush. That was the best deal we could make. If we can't do it, Mantusen still has Clyde."

Blair considered slowly, his eyes on the mouth of the Siderong. "It's seven hours to high tide," he said at last.

"Put out a boat to sound the bar; once now and again in four hours. From that we can compute the tide." I told him other things to do, about the rocket guns and boarding us, and Grogan's foot.

"Aye," he said at last, and moved off slowly, two thirds dazed.

As I turned away, I saw that Christine was still waiting for me. "Come aft," she said.

I followed her. There was nothing to be done for hours now that Blair could not take care of, and he had plenty of time. I was glad he was here. There were some things I needed to know, and meant to find out. But mostly now that I saw she was still safe, I wanted to take out on her some of my anger over what she and her people had done.

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 4—The Knickerbocker

The 291 foot "Knickerbocker" was a wooden-hull steamer built in 1842 by Smith and Dimon of New York, with her engine made by the West Point Foundry, and originally used in the "DeWitt Clinton." Daniel Drew, Isaac Newton, and others of the People's Line, were the owners of the "Knickerbocker" which was considered a very staunch and beautiful craft, plying the waters of the Hudson until 1846 when her owners sent her to the Stonington Line. She saw service on this Long Island Sound line for a number of years and was partially rebuilt for this work, being widened three feet forward of the wheels which were set back into pockets, thus making added stateroom accommodations.

Once again the "Knickerbocker" returned to the Hudson river, meeting with various mishaps during her service. On September 1, 1856, the "Knickerbocker" sailed from Albany, bound for New York, with 300 passengers and a quantity of freight and livestock aboard. En route down the river, the vessel hit a rock, displacing her boiler which caused the vessel to list to the larboard as the cargo and boiler rolled to one side of the craft. The pilot saw the danger and turned the vessel's bow towards Fort Montgomery creek, three miles north of Peekskill, with the intentions of backing the stricken vessel into shallow water. The steamer "Niagara" of the opposition line passed by while the "Knickerbocker" was in distress but disregarded all signals for assistance and plowed her way on up the river. The little steamer "Machanic" came to the aid of the "Knickerbocker" and took off 150 of the passengers, with the rest being rescued in small boats and taken to Peekskill.

The rescued passengers on board the "Machanic" held a prayer and praise meeting at midnight to give thanks for their deliverance, and then they made up a purse of almost a thousand dollars which they presented to Captain Coe of the "Machanic."

The "Knickerbocker" drifted about with the tide and then sank. She was raised and repaired, and then saw service running in line with the "Hero" of the Merchants Through Line.

In April 1859, the "Knickerbocker" ran down and sank the sloop "Stephen Raymond" near Hastings. This collision came at night and the entire crew of the sloop perished.

During the year 1862 the "Knickerbocker" plied the route between Rondout and New York, taking the place of the steamer "Manhattan" until the new steamer "Thomas Cornell" came into existence. This was the last of the "Knickerbocker" in this territory as she was then taken south and used for a troop transport, and later was wrecked on Chesapeake Bay.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The ironic coincidence of a star actor playing a role in a successful Broadway play, for extravagant wages, which he once was compelled to play in real life with only poverty and bitterness for recompense, is another facet to the many-sided record of Wallace Ford.

Years ago he was a roving farm hand, wandering as a child from one Canadian ranch to another.

Today in "Of Mice and Men," he plays a roving farm hand, drifting from one fruit ranch to another.

"Someday we'll have a little farm of our own and live off the fat of the land," runs a little song of hope all through the play. "We ain't like the other s. We're gonna have a place all our own, with vegetables, and an extra bed, and rabbits, and if we want to sleep and rest and not work, then we'll just throw another log on the fire and not bother." In effect, that is the dream.

But, on the stage, it never comes true.

As a road kid, in real life, Ford once saw his best pal crushed beneath the wheels of a freight train. Ford's name then was Sam Jones. So he adopted the name Ford and has used it ever since.

In the play Ford's best friend comes to a frightful death. The parallel, with tantalizing accuracy, stretches out from the dual lines of life's actuality and theatrical make-believe.

The actor, who is 40, could buy any number of farms if he chose, talks freely about those early days, with no trace of bitterness. He has a penthouse now where once he slept in box cars. And he has a mother where once he was an orphan. But that story has been well told—how the hope that his mother was alive persisted against orphanage records—how a detective agency ferreted her out and restored her to the son who never gave up hope that she was alive. She is living in Northwick, Cheshire "off the fat of the land," just as he sings about in John Steinbeck's play on Broadway.

BIOGRAPHICAL data: Came to Canada from England with 300 orphans and set to work as a chore-hand. Was employed for awhile by a railroad. . . . Became a newsboy and sold papers. . . . Did a vaudeville sketch imitating Charles Chap

Stocks and Bonds And Commodities Gained Monday

The dollar was weak as against foreign currencies yesterday and there were rumors of a new devaluation, which Secretary Morgenthau is reported to have laughed off as inconsequential. Commercial Investment Trust Corp. report for 1932 shows net for the year of $21,591,236, a new high record. Earnings for the second half of the year were lower than those of the first half.

bobbed up and down in today's market but leaders held recoveries running to two or more points.

Dealings were slow throughout. What little activity there was, however, appeared in buying periods. Extreme advances were reduced near the final hour as profit realizing became a little more insistent. Transfers were at the rate of about 800,000 shares.

In view of yesterday's rally, the first in nine sessions, many in-and-out traders did not linger long with commitments bought at last week's lows.

Maroon Cagers to Play Poughkeepsie At 8 This Evening

As a warm-up for Friday's important clash with Newburgh at their gym, the Kingston High School basketball aggregation takes on Poughkeepsie High tonight at the municipal auditorium. The game is slated for 8 o'clock with Dick Whiston's Jayvees, engaging another strong junior opponent.

This evening's battle marks the second fracas between the Bridge City quintet and the Maroon representatives and judging from the last encounter between these two clubs, a well-balanced game should be the result.

Taking the burden for the locals tonight will probably be Charlie Bock, Jesse Shultis or Ray Van Buren, Tommy Maines, Paul Argueleviz and George Silverberg. Since Poughkeepsie and Kingston met before, the familiar face of Sloat Rowland has dropped from the latter roster and although Shultis and Van Buren undoubtedly will fill the bill to a certain extent, the Kingston team will be a little off color without Rowland. However, Kingston is still a favorite to win.

On the Kalliochmen roster Whitely Whitell, Real Empert, MacDonald and Burns are the standouts. The Kalliochmen team, however, base their strength mostly on MacDonald and Whitell who gave the locals enough trouble in their last engagement.

The starting lineups for the game are as follows:

Kingston
Captain Bock
Shultis
Maines
Argueleviz
Silverberg

Poughkeepsie
Whitell
MacDonald
Burns
Real Empert

NOTES FOR SPORTSMEN

By EDDIE BRITZ
New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—The Reds have delayed publication of their spring roster in the hope of pulling off a big deal any day now.

Giants are said to be involved with Gus Mancuso changing uniforms with Ernie Lombardi, among others. Disturbances already are up for a Minnesota backfield big shot. Yep, it's back trouble.

But the guy isn't Van Lier, the sophomore flash, who is an "A" student. Ceterio Garcia, the classy Los Angeles welterweight has just turned down ten thousand dollars to fight Jack Carroll in Australia. "T. T." actually spoke to some of the sports writers at the Baseball Writers' dinner Sunday night.

Two young fellows who are going places in baseball are Oliver French of the Cardinal organization and Ray Kennedy, first lieutenant to George Weiss at Newark. Both these lads have plenty on the ball and their employers realize it.

George Barton, Jr., son of the distinguished sports editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, is doing a grand job directing musical programs for Station KMOX at St. Louis, one of the largest in the Midwest.

Branch Rickey will be in personal charge of the baseball school the Cardinals will operate at Winter Haven, Fla., beginning February 21. Mebbe it was just a coincidence the Cards decided to hold their school for beginners in the town where the Phillies hold town.

Note to J. F. S. New Orleans: The name is "Brooks." Ed Walzau, of the Hotel Piccadilly, official host to the West Pointers when they come to New York, has just been presented the football they used in last fall's Army-Notre Dame game. It bears the signature of every member of the army team.

College coaches might sound out Harry (Red) O'Neill, 185-pound back of the Elmira (N. Y.) high school team. Gents, that kid has it with a capital "I" and he ain't muscle bound between the ears, either, which should be good news to some of you coaching guys.

P. S. The kid prefers the west coast.

Jeff Tesreau, the old Giant pitcher, now coaching baseball at Dartmouth, has been signed to manage St. Albans in the Northern New York and Vermont League next season.

Harry Thomas will show the Eagle Bend, Minn., home folks how he worked his way up to the fourth ladder when he gives a four-round exhibition at nearby Wadena, February 7. His opponent will be Henry Pontius, who is only Harry's brother.

Jimmy Braddock is worth $100,000 and if anybody tells you differently, he is only kidding. Also Braddock may open a restaurant soon and if he does the name will be "Inn Braddock's Corner."

Say, is something big about to pop down at dear old Duke? ... don't be surprised boys.

Steele Faces Trial At Newburgh on Murder Charge

Newburgh, N. Y., Feb. 1 (AP)—The state charged Myron Steele, 28, United States marine of Smalltown, Mont., today with attempting to murder his infant daughter by pouring scalding water down her throat.

On trial for attempted first degree murder, Steele yesterday heard Assistant District Attorney Martin Rosenblum introduce a purported confession he said was signed by the defendant.

In it, Rosenblum said, Steele admitted he was jealous of the attentions paid the child, then six months old, by his common law wife, Margaret Hutchinsfield. The state charged the attempted murder occurred last August 22.

Steele, at the time, was stationed at the Iowa Island arsenal near West Point, N. Y., and his family lived in Fort Montgomery, N. Y.

Bill of Interest To Sports Clubs

Complimentary copies of "An Act" to recodify and amend the conservation law in relation to fish and game, as introduced by Assemblyman Pease, has been sent to all member clubs of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster county by Assemblyman Conway. Any other club or person interested in this measure should write to him Assembly Chamber, Albany, N. Y., for a copy. This bill as introduced will very much simplify the present existing code and would make these laws very much simpler and easier to interpret and understand, as they contain approximately about one-third as many words as the present existing code. Most sportsmen agree that there is an urgent need for this recodification, as the present code with its many amendments added since the last recodification, has made most of them so complex that it is almost impossible to interpret their real meaning. There are however a number of drastic changes in this bill and it would be well for every Sportsmen's Club and individual who is interested in hunting or fishing to acquaint themselves with these changes and voice their opinion, either through a club or direct to Assemblyman Conway upon the desirability of this bill as introduced or any suggestions for changes. As the department is desirous of having this bill disposed of before other legislative bills pertaining to the Conservation Department come up for final disposal, it is urgent that you send in your opinions at an early date, otherwise they may be too late for consideration.

1938 600 Sets of Licenses Plates Ahead of Last Year

Deputy County Clerk H. C. Finiger and his staff at the Ulster County Motor Vehicle Bureau office on Fair street was taking a slight pause today after a heavy week issuing license plates. Today a few last minute applicants kept the force busy, but the rush of the past few days was over. On Monday, the last day on which pleasure cars could be operated on 1937 plates, the office was crowded from morning until night and at times the line extended to the door of the office despite the fact that both windows were in operation. A check this morning disclosed that despite an apparent decrease in the number of plates issued early, 1938 has been a better year than 1937 so far as number of pleasure plates is concerned. To date 11,730 sets of plates have been issued for pleasure cars and at the same time a year ago there had been issued 11,130 sets. This places 1938 about 600 sets ahead of last year.

Up until Saturday the present year was considerably behind 1937. In order to accommodate applicants County Clerk James A. Simpson had the office remain open Saturday afternoon until 4 o'clock and there were a large number of plates issued that afternoon. All cars on the highway now must display the new 1938 tags or stand subject to difficulty should a State Trooper or other police officer's watchful eye spy the tardy motorist.

Time With a Bang
Penn Van, N. Y. Jan 25 (AP)—Ladies More Exploited Away a handbag left hand today with the simple statement: "A clock exploded." Moore said his family had used Kerosene on the clock when he did not know this when he took his turn at trying to fix it. "I thought the clock was weather might have something to do with it," he said. "So I held it over a lit candle." (From Tribune of Friday, Jan. 25)
